Policy Statement (1)

This policy covers the College's approach to the teaching of Personal, Social & Health Education (PSHE), as an important and necessary part of all pupils' education.

Throughout the whole College we provide a vital foundation for the personal development of young people in preparing them for adult life. PSHE is important in combating the social exclusion and disaffection of any student, with the capacity to equip all young people with the skills and attitudes needed to react positively to the pressures of modern life.

The guidelines consist of a framework for personal, social health and economic education for Key Stages 1, 2, 3, 4 and Sixth Form. Together with the promotion of a tolerant and diverse culture, students develop knowledge, skills and understanding in the following areas:

- developing confidence and responsibility and making the most of their abilities
- developing a healthy, safer lifestyle
- developing good relationships and respecting people, their differences, and their lifestyle choice
- developing an understanding of the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs.

In preparing this document, consideration has been given to:

- Education Act, (1996)
- Learning And Skills Act, (2000)
- Education And Inspections Act, (2006)
- Equality Act, (2010)
- Supplementary Guidance: SRE for the 21st Century, (2014)
- Keeping Children Safe In Education – Statutory Safeguarding Guidance, (2024)
- Children And Social Work Act, (2017)
- DfE's Relationships And Sex Education And Health Education, (2021)
- Working Together To Safeguard Children, (2023)

Resources and supplementary guidance are taken from:

- PSHE Association
- Sex Education Forum's 12 Principles Of Good Quality RSE (appendices)
- Children's charities, e.g. Childline / NSPCC / etc.

Practice (1) – Introduction

The aim for PSHE education is to support the College's overarching aims and objectives to promote the spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical development of pupils to provide them with life-skills. These opportunities are also embedded within the curriculum as well as in Form Times, Assemblies, and broader experiences beyond the curriculum.

The PSHE programme is developed to:

- 1) Facilitate the pupil's personal growth and development through their own active participation.
- 2) Develop skills and attributes such as resilience, self-esteem, self-knowledge, self-confidence, risk management, team working and critical thinking to promote good mental well-being.
- 3) Help the individual move towards being a self-determining adult, able to make decisions, set goals and adapt to change and be able to develop their confidence and self-awareness.
- 4) Help the individual acquire important social and coping skills in thinking, feeling, decision making, communication and action.
- 5) Reinforce the idea of making positive choices with the topics of alcohol, drugs, smoking, sex and relationship education, career education and guidance.
- 6) Understand and enhance their spiritual, moral, cultural, physical and mental development.

- 7) Have an understanding of human reproduction and a clear awareness about the need for healthy lifestyle choices.
- 8) Appreciate the importance of stable, caring and loving relationships in promoting mental and emotional health.
- 9) Ensure the active promotion of Fundamental British Values (FBV).
- 10) Assist and enable pupils to distinguish right from wrong and to respect the civil and criminal law of the UK;
- 11) Encourage pupils to accept responsibility for their behaviour, show initiative and understand how they can contribute positively to the lives of those living and working in the locality in which the school is situated and to society more widely;
- 12) Enable pupils to acquire a broad general knowledge of and respect for public institutions and services in the UK.
- 13) Further tolerance and harmony between different cultural traditions by enabling pupils to acquire an appreciation of and respect for their own and other cultures;
- 14) Encourage respect for other people, paying particular regard to the protected characteristics set out in the 2010 Act; and
- 15) Encourage respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis on which the law is made and applied in the UK.

Through discussion, we develop respectful relationships which can challenge and question.

At Abbey Gate College we strive to promote equality and diversity to improve our school community by interlinking each distinct area of school life with one common theme: a strong and supportive community which is respectful of each other.

We celebrate ideas, successes, achievements, innovations; challenge views in an open, honest and respectful way; generate positive relationships that criss-cross through our school community. Ultimately, we are trying to continually raise standards, demonstrate democracy, fairness and a sense of justice through education. (Ref. Equal Opportunities Policy).

Teaching takes into account the ability, age, readiness and cultural backgrounds of all pupils and those with English as a second language, to ensure that all can fully access the PSHE educational provision.

RSE is a separate and distinct area taught alongside the PSHE curriculum. Staff delivering the curriculums will ensure that learning and topic content is always age appropriate. Pupils will experience different modes of delivery and staff will ensure pupils are aware of how to access additional information and support if required. Staff will deliver the content set out by the Government in a spiral curriculum which will allow learning / understanding to progress throughout the Key Stages. A spiral curriculum will allow for building of knowledge whilst maintaining the age appropriate delivery aspect. There will also be some cross-curricular links with other subject areas which will complement the delivery of PSHE, (e.g. CS, science, geography, RE, drama, PE).

The PSHE curriculum is designed to empower children with knowledge in order to make informed decisions. The curriculum is designed to reflect life issues and balance skills, knowledge and personal attributes alongside academic development to provide well rounded and well-informed individuals.

Abbey Gate College covers all statutory aspects of the curriculum in ways which are designed to meet the needs and requirements of our school community - if they are not relevant, they will not be effective. The curriculum is broad and balanced in nature and reflective of society. The delivery of PSHE promotes development of spiritual, moral, cultural, mental and physical attributes of pupils in order to help prepare them for opportunities, responsibilities and experiences in later life. We are not aiming to merely teach the Government requirements; we are striving to embed an ethos of the broader issues of life – and the impact of them - into the provision of our rich and holistic pastoral approach to school life and education.

At all times, lessons and messages will reflect British law and the values of British society. It is important that pupils clearly understand the law and associated consequences or legal implications resulting from not abiding by the law. We are trying to foster good morals into our pupils so they may have integrity in later life.

Aspects of faith and religion will also be addressed comparing the similarities and differences of beliefs where appropriate. As with all elements of the curriculum teachers would encourage balanced and respectful debate.

Practice (2) – PSHE Curriculum Provision & Promoting Fundamental British Values (FBVs)

PSHE is delivered through three overlapping linked 'Core Themes'.

The Core Themes are:

- 1) Health and Wellbeing
- 2) Relationships
- 3) Living in the Wider World, Economic Wellbeing, Careers and the World of Work

Throughout the programme it is recognised that PSHE development includes, but is by no means limited to, promoting the values which underlie public life in the United Kingdom, as also in very many other countries, as outlined in documents issued by the Department for Education in Autumn 2014 about 'Fundamental British Values'.

British values underlying public life have been summarised as 'including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect, and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs'. It is important that pupils should appreciate that such values are not unique to the UK but on the contrary are at the basis of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and are respected in a very wide range of countries throughout the world.

The scheme of work acknowledges that:

- 1) Values underlying public life are broadly the same in all democratic countries
- 2) Each country has its own history and context
- 3) All pupils need a sense of belonging, respecting identity, individual loyalties and affiliations, and experience.
- 4) Negative and demeaning stereotypes must be challenged
- 5) Values are frequently controversial; open-mindedness and critical thinking are required to clarify thought
- 6) Understandings of 'Britishness' should be inclusive

This programme aims to foster exploration and discussion of Britishness in an inclusive way, which embraces diversity and acknowledges the multiple ways of connecting with British society.

- 3) how to develop employability, team working and leadership skills and develop flexibility and resilience
- 4) about the economic and business environment
- 5) how personal financial choices can affect oneself and others and about rights and responsibilities as consumers.

Practice (6) – PSHE Roles & Responsibilities

Staff identified in Key Personnel are respectively responsible for:

- 1) ensuring that the PSHE is at the heart of the school curriculum, ensuring that British Values are fundamental to our teaching and learning
- 2) the overall planning, implementation and review of the programme
- 3) organising the delivery of PSHE through a team of dedicated teachers and specialist outside agencies
- 4) Identifying training needs for staff for the delivery of the programme
- 5) ensuring that a variety of teaching approaches will be used to give students relevant information, to enable issues to be explored, and to acquire appropriate skills – see teaching methods and learning approaches

The Head of PSHE and RSE leads the review of policy and implementation across the College, in liaison with the Head and the Head of Infant & Junior School.

Confidentiality is important when discussing social and emotional topics; therefore, if some students find areas of the work challenging and distressing for a number of reasons, the teacher may find it necessary to refer to the Safeguarding Policy and/or the Designated Safeguarding Lead (DSL).

PSHE has discrete allocation within the curriculum, but is also an integral part of the whole curriculum. Individual teachers are responsible for their own class organisation and teaching style in relation to PSHE, whilst ensuring that these complement and reflect the overall aims and ethos of the College.

PSHE Provision (1) – General Guidance

The following points must be considered when planning lessons:-

- 1) Current understanding – this can vary greatly from individual to individual; therefore, even the basic information must be covered.
- 2) Additional understanding – this will depend on the age group being taught, their knowledge of the issue, and their ability/readiness to discuss the issue in greater depth.
- 3) Delivery techniques and strategies to demonstrate the topic and to encourage the pupils to discuss, consider and understand the topic.

PSHE Provision (2) – EYFS

In EYFS, the prime areas of PSHE are planned into daily teaching and takes different formats depending on topic and events. The named practitioner for Behaviour and Pastoral Care is the EYFS Coordinator. The Head of AGC Infant and Junior School takes overall responsibility for EYFS.

Personal, social and emotional development supports children's development by helping them to interact effectively and develop positive attitudes to themselves and others. However, this does not happen in isolation and relies on influential adults such as parents and teachers providing them with positive feedback and modelling appropriate behaviour.

In the EYFS, PS&ED (Personal, Social and Emotional Development) is broken down into three aspects:

- 1) Self-confidence and self-awareness
- 2) Managing feelings and behaviour
- 3) Making relationships

Self-confidence and self-awareness: This aspect is about how children come to develop confidence in who they are and what they can do and in expressing their own ideas. Our teaching and provision of support in this area helps the child feel valued and special and gives them a sense of self-worth. This in turn leads to them being confident with others and knowing when they need support from other people.

Managing feelings and behaviour: This aspect is about how children can understand their own feelings and other people's feelings, and how they learn to manage their feelings. It also links to how they learn and can follow simple rules which operate in different places such as school and at home. Children are supported by all staff to help them to understand these complex and often challenging areas.

Making relationships: This aspect is about how children learn to get along with other children and with adults; how they can see something from somebody else's point of view and take that into account when they play and work with other children. It is also significant in developing friendships. At AGC Infant and Junior School we ensure role models are observed in every aspect of school life, both male and female and of different ages. This includes older pupils. These role models demonstrate how to positively interact with others; how to be kind and to understand why people behave in certain ways – such as saying sorry for hurting another person's feelings and understanding why an apology is necessary.

Due to the flexible nature of EYFS teaching, the teacher will seize any potential possibility to address PS&ED throughout the day. This is not always reflected in planning as it can be spontaneous but it is recorded in the pupils' Learning Journeys and tracking documents. Success in these areas is evident in pupil behaviour, attitude and ever developing social skills.

Pupil progress and understanding in this area is tracked through daily observations which are measured against ELG (Early Learning Goals) as well as being recorded in Learning Journeys and in half termly tracking.

EYFS attend weekly assemblies to celebrate achievement. They take part in whole school charitable fund-raising events, thematic workshops with other year groups and exploit many opportunities to become part of the whole school community and the wider community.

PSHE Provision (3) – Infant & Junior School

At the Infant and Junior School, class-based learning, and themed PSHE focus days are intrinsic to our PSHE provision. SMSC – Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural - and aspects of PSHE are also taught in assemblies throughout the year. Relationship Education is taught to each year group within our PSHE programme. This combination of teaching aid children in developing real, practical knowledge and understanding of all aspects of PSHE and SMSC.

PSHE Provision (4) – Senior School

The importance of a well balanced PSHE curriculum is supported at Abbey Gate College by weekly curriculum time for Years 7 - 11, (approximately one hour per week), and in accordance with the PSHE Association's recommendations. Year 11 and 6th Form pupils have been trialling a 'Journey Of Life' programme during 2024/2025. This programme of study complements and builds upon the work and topic areas covered in Years 7 - 10. The programme aims to make PSHE practically relevant to the students' lives prior to them embarking upon an independent life outside of the structures and security of school. Additional opportunities to enhance the regular timetabled lessons are also included in the provision at Key Stage 3 and 4 by weekly form activities and through whole school activities. Provision is also made available for outside agencies to supplement both curriculums.

Throughout all Key Stages, topics related to PSHE are covered in a variety of lessons. Further detail is available in schemes of work for SMSC, including Cross-Curriculum links.

In Sixth Form, students in Lower Sixth have one lesson a week. All Sixth Formers have a programme for Form Time.

It is hoped that throughout the College pupils will continue to build on their experiences learnt in the previous Key Stages and continue to develop with maturity and a greater understanding of the world we live in.

PSHE Provision (5) – Overview of Subject Content

*Research shows that many young people are being exposed to pornography, often accidentally when it appears via adverts or pop-ups whilst using the internet. To try to reduce the harm of young people being exposed to pornography we try to highlight the pitfalls of it within relationships and concentrate on developing the understanding of positive aspects of healthy relationships including how to establish, generate and foster respect.

Sexual Health: Maintaining sexual health; types and purposes of contraception; negotiating contraceptive use; STIs; choices following an unplanned pregnancy; changing fertility and conception options; how to access sexual health services.

PSHE Provision (6) – Assessment

There is no formal assessment; however, evaluation is carried out by:

- 1) Observations of pupils or groups of pupils when on a task.
- 2) Pupil-led outcomes in a variety of forms (written, photographic, artistic).
- 3) Outcomes are reviewed against the curriculum.
- 4) Evaluation of the schemes of work.
- 5) Pupil reviews
- 6) Questioning in lessons

PSHE Provision (7) – Parental & Community Involvement

Parents are informed as appropriate at the Infant and Junior School when topics relate to sex education, drugs, alcohol and smoking are explored. Parents who feel that the subject matter is inappropriate for their child will have the opportunity to discuss this with the school and an alternative for these lessons will be found if necessary. Following government guidelines, all Junior School pupils must receive Relationships education. Parents are not allowed to withdraw junior school pupils from Relationships or Health education. Where age appropriate aspects of sex education are taught (consent, puberty, reproduction), parents may withdraw their child from part or all of it. If a parent has a concern about any aspect of Relationship Education, the Deputy Head of Infant and Junior School is available to discuss any issues or concerns and go through content.

At the Senior School, when specific lesson content requires parents to be further informed, letters are sent home to parents to outline the purpose and content of PSHE material. Parents are also invited to view the PSHE handbook and other relevant documents on the school website or VLE (Virtual Learning Environment). They may contact the PSHE Coordinator to discuss the curriculum at any time. Should parents wish to withdraw their child from the Sex Education aspects of the PSHE curriculum they will be asked to follow the relevant procedures in line with school policy for withdrawal to initiate the process. This information can be found in the RSE policy.

Parents are an essential asset to the College. Parents are able to discuss the PSHE curriculums by contacting the PSHE Co-ordinator at school, and randomly selected parents are asked for their views periodically on relevant documentation as and when appropriate. Establishing and maintaining positive working relationships are important to ensuring the curriculum appropriately meets the needs of our College community.

There may be occasions whereby parents will be informed of events and activities via clarion call or letter. Decisions for such communications to occur will be after discussion with the subject lead and DSL, with the intention to suitably and efficiently furnish pupils and parents with specific information requirements at specific times in the school year. We also have links with the community and work closely with the local church in Aldford and we involve outside agencies as much as possible to deliver specialised aspects of the curriculum particularly during events such as: Wellbeing Day, Personal Safety Day and E-Safety initiatives.

Pupils have the opportunity to contribute to the PSHE curriculum through verbal and written feedback, and discussions with the Head of PSHE. Discussion on topics, content and methods of delivery are encouraged. These discussions are intended to allow pupils to have some contribution to lesson content and delivery, assess the appropriateness of content, as well as provide ongoing evaluation and monitoring of the curriculum that is provided at Abbey Gate College. The subject lead will also maintain close association with the school's pupil voice committees, which meet to discuss school life with a view to better provide for the needs of the pupils from day to day.

PSHE Provision (8) – Training & Subject Knowledge

Lead staff are committed to keeping abreast of content, statutory and non-statutory guidelines and wider subject debate. The topic is vast; a cohesive approach such as that found at Abbey Gate College supports strong delivery and best practice.

Access to training and provision of appropriate resources is fundamental to the delivery of an effective curriculum. The Head is committed to such provision resulting in staff delivering the curriculum being able to maintain freshness and variety in imparting information thus stimulating pupils in relevant and engaging lessons.

RSE Provision (9) – Key Points of Delivery

Offering Advice: It should be noted that the staff teaching the curriculum are not counsellors or professional healthcare practitioners and as such should not be expected to provide anything other than an informative general education. Pupils will be directed towards professionals and access to other information sources where and when appropriate.

Explicit Questions: Some questions may be too explicit to deal with in a classroom setting. In such circumstances, the teacher will use professional discretion, whilst being mindful of child protection and safeguarding aspects.

Confidentiality: Staff cannot offer unconditional confidentiality if there is a believed risk of harm, or if the teacher suspects a potential breach of the law has occurred which poses a threat to or puts a child at risk. In such circumstances the designated safeguarding lead will be informed. Staff will always act in the best interests of the child. At all times appropriate support will be offered.

Language: Correct scientific language or socially acceptable contextual language will be used where appropriate, to ensure effective transfer of information to the pupils. Terminology which is socially unacceptable or offensive in nature will not be permitted and if necessary, reasons explained to the children in order to prevent further use of such language. Sometimes lack of education and understanding of sensitive issues or misuse in the home setting is the precursor for continued usage in children.

Teaching About Sexuality: No one lifestyle is explained as being the only one acceptable to our society. It is therefore a natural course of lesson discussion to explain how people differ in their sexual attractions. Discussions should allow for misconceptions to be remedied and the provision of factual information to be sensitively delivered, thus striving to reduce prejudice and discrimination. It is recognised that at times healthy debate may be robust. As with all other aspects of the curriculum, debate must remain respectful and in so being it will form a positive learning journey for the children in how to handle disagreement of beliefs and points of view. Teachers will ensure subject content remains age appropriate for the children.

Diversity and Inclusion: The curriculum and delivery will be sensitive to the diverse range of religious and cultural views of the school community and wider society. The access to learning about different religious beliefs and sexual behaviour is designed to keep pupils safe, healthy and understand their rights as individuals. Information will be delivered impartially and address issues pertaining to the law. Discrimination in all forms will be challenged, being mindful of the 'Protected Characteristics' of our society and 'British Values'. Discussion and debate will be encouraged with the expectation that both are always respectfully conducted.

Contraception: Information will be provided to the children in an open and non-judgemental or directive way. Issues of faith and belief alongside consequences of not using contraception will be openly discussed. Discussion will be mindful of age appropriate detail and content.

Safeguarding: Children's welfare and safety will be paramount in lesson delivery. School procedures will be followed when visitors are invited onto the school site to deliver aspects of the PSHE curriculum. Visitors will only be invited onto the school site to deliver sessions which the school feels will enhance the pupils learning experience and maximise the impact of learning by adding value to the curriculum. The school and teaching staff will be mindful of how to project information to the children in ways which do not inadvertently encourage unsafe behaviour to then ensue, e.g. glamorising, stigmatising or directing pupils to alcohol, eating disorders, self-harm, etc. Staff will be compassionate towards vulnerable pupils and pupil needs. As with all aspects of teaching, confidentiality will be respected but cannot be guaranteed where there is a query over the safety or potential safety, or allusion to risk or potential risk, of a pupil in the class. Any pupils or issues which presents themselves to the teacher as being a cause for concern will be passed on to the DSL.

Staff are advised as follows:

- Questions will be answered honestly and openly.
- Support services signposted.
- Ground Rules, (see Appendices), will be set out and adhered to during lessons. Pupils will be reminded of the rules periodically but especially when sensitive or emotive issues are being discussed.
- Pupils will know that they can leave the lesson and go to sit in the school reception for times when they feel a little overwhelmed by the lesson content. (NB: if this does occur in a lesson the teacher must follow up and check upon the welfare of the child at the earliest opportunity).
- Use of case studies to be relied upon rather than personal experiences. However, there may be some occasions whereby personal experience is a more appropriate method to convey the message. Professional judgement and discretion will apply in these circumstances.
- Lessons should be appropriately challenging and differentiated in accordance with age, past experiences, knowledge, relevance, etc.
- Continuous assessment to occur throughout the curriculum alongside a spiral curriculum delivery throughout the Key Stage, (and therefore natural progression between Key Stages).
- Use of inclusive language and correct terminology.
- Questioning designed to extend learning and extract thoughtful responses.
- Good quality and safe resources to be used from recognised and recommended sources or organisations.
- Delivery should include various techniques ensuring that they are interactive, inclusive and collaborative in nature.
- Lessons and teaching should be flexible to accommodate specific needs and nuances of each class throughout delivery.

Advice from the Learning Enrichment team will be sought when addressing issues arising with some pupils requiring additional support. Where and when appropriate plans are then implemented to complement the normal delivered programme of activity.

APPENDIX 3: Ground Rules for Pupils

These two documents are presented to the children via PowerPoint and poster.

Ground Rules

- Openness – open and honest opinions.
- Non-judgemental approach.
- Listen to other people's points of view and be prepared to discuss different views other than your own.
- Right to pass – taking part is important, but you do not have to answer every question!
- Correct use of language and terminology.
- Keep the conversation in the room – what is discussed is relevant for our lesson, some topics may be particularly sensitive or age appropriate.
- Do not assume other people's values, attitudes, life experiences or feelings. Be mindful of others.
- Ask questions – there are no stupid questions. PSHEE lessons work best by exploring through discussion and conversation.

Take A Break

Some lessons may have greater relevance to you than others – perhaps due to your own experiences, etc.

You may leave the lesson and sit in the school reception should this ever be the case for you.

Your teacher will check that you are ok after the lesson.

APPENDIX 4: Skills for Life & British Values

Skills for life are demonstrated throughout Abbey Gate College within the classroom and academic setting, and alongside our social and pastoral provision. By providing opportunity for the pupils to practically apply and utilise British Values we can confidently state that life skills are being understood and demonstrated throughout our school community. Equipping pupils with life skills and providing them with the confidence to actively demonstrate a broad awareness of what it means to be a British citizen are important if we are to nurture and encourage high standards, strong moral foundations and confident young people within our society.

APPENDIX 5: Key Stages 1 & 2 Curriculum

PSHE Infant and Junior School

Our Foundation pupils follow our EYFS PSED curriculum in conjunction with our Tolerance and Equality curriculum, and our RSHE curriculum. During key stages 1 and 2, PSHE offers both explicit and implicit learning opportunities and experiences which reflect pupils' increasing independence and physical and social awareness, as they move through the primary phase. It builds on our school aims of Self, Service and Sustainability. Our ThoughtBox Think & Thrive is a progressive discussion-based curriculum in which every student's voice is heard and every voice matters. It builds on the skills that pupils started to acquire during the Early Years Foundation stage (EYFS) to develop effective relationships, assume greater personal responsibility and manage personal safety, including online. PSHE education helps pupils to manage the physical and emotional changes, introduces them to a wider world and enables them to make an active contribution to their communities. Abbey Gate College Infant and Junior School teaches PSHE through weekly PSHE lessons, as well as using form time sessions and an assembly programme designed to cover the following themes:
